MARKET COMMENTARY

Market declined last week, tracking weakness in other global stocks after the US Federal Reserve (US Fed) hiked interest rate on Wednesday, 14 December 2016. US Fed also hinted at a more aggressive pattern of rate increases next year. Higher interest rates in the US could result in dollar outflows from emerging markets towards the US. Selling the Indian stock market was, however, contained by back-to-back positive data in the domestic economy. For the Next week Nifty likely to trade in the range between 8350 – 8450 in the upper side and 8050 – 7950 in the lower side.
